THE 5% ZONE

GLOBAL EXECUTIVE MINDSET (GEM)

How to Stand Out as a Global Executive

STEPHEN KREMPL, an international trainer, speaker and author has worked with thousands of leaders in over 30+ countries. His career spans 25 years working for Fortune 500 companies such as Starbucks, Motorola and PepsiCo. He has also authored five books including The 5% Zone.

THE 5% ZONE PROGRAM, which we also titles as GEM, provides a transformative experience that will show managers and leaders how to communicate confidently, connect personally and stand out effectively with their global counterparts no matter what their cultural or ethnic background. The program will also enable participants to receive multiple points of feedback on how they come across to senior leaders.

Positively Negative

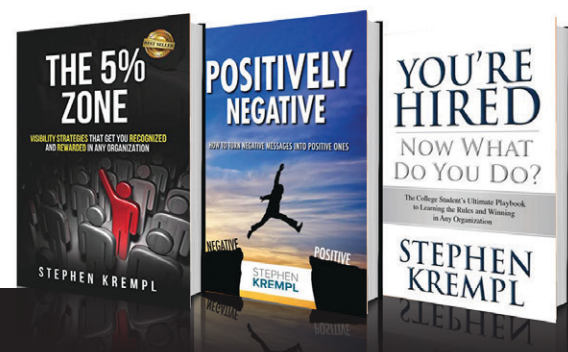

Turning Negative Messages into Positive Ones at Work

POSITIVELY NEGATIVE is a program that shares the secrets of talking to the Boss, Senior Leaders and Colleagues in a winsome manner.

The program helps people change their words to communicate with senior management to focus on being problem solvers and solution providers. This program shows the participants better ways of framing challenging issues in positive terms without avoiding the issues.

According to Japanese culture, all of us have an IKIGAI – a reason for living, a reason for getting up in the morning, a reason for being. To discover our IKIGAI, we ask four fundamental questions about ourselves and use the answers as a compass to bring us closer to our purpose. In addition, there are five pillars fundamental to experiencing ikigai on daily basis, incorporating this mindset as we go about our day.
