LEADERSHIP FEEDBACK TOOL (LFT)

- The Leadership Feedback Tool (LFT) is an example of the kind of assessment ITD World's e-Assessment is built for
- This LFT assesses leaders in four elements to pinpoint their strengths and areas for improvement
- Feedback obtained is used as a base for future improvement efforts

THE ELEMENTS BEING ASSESSED

“Absorb what is useful,
Discard what is not, Add what is uniquely your own.”

Bruce Lee

LFT PROVIDES INSIGHTS INTO

SPHERE OF PERMISSION

Permission are the competencies related to relationships and EQ. It is here the people being assessed can have a strategic view of the status of their connections with their networks. Having strong relationships with others is important to get things done efficiently and effectively.

Those who possess a high EQ will enjoy higher influence among their superiors, peers and direct reports and so tend to perform at a higher level. People with high EQ can communicate clearly and effectively as well as be open to feedback for self-improvement.

SPHERE OF PERFORMANCE

In the sphere of performance, key leaders and those being assessed can better understand their contributions to the team and the organization. It is here their competencies in results and responsibilities are being evaluated.

These competencies include having a responsible attitude, possessing a high initiative to get things done fast on time, and delivering good quality work. Those who are proficient in this are high-performers who can be tapped upon to get accomplishments.

SPHERE OF PEOPLE DEVELOPMENT

ITD World believes there is tremendous value in developing and growing others. Those who can help their team members become better gain the respect of their peers, as well as seeing their influence expand in the organization.

There are several competencies being assessed under this sphere, including taking the initiative for self-improvement, equipping people with the right knowledge and skills and effectively training and developing people. Those who help others grow eventually find themselves growing too.

SPHERE OF PERSONHOOD

Under this sphere, those being assessed will see how others relate to them as a person. Knowing how a person is perceived by the people around them is an important for increasing self-awareness to lead towards self-growth and improvement.

Competencies to be assessed in this sphere include positive mental attitudes, being a forgiving person, a role-model for others, good work discipline and contributes to the organization attaining its vision and mission.

HOW LFT ON e-ASSESSMENT WORKS

People who are assessed first assess their own performance before observers, comprising their superiors, direct reports, peers and stakeholders

Persons being assessed rate themselves while the observers' rates and give their written feedback of the person

A report is then generated to show the performance of the person being assessed under each sphere.

The process is anonymized so a detailed picture can emerge to reveal gaps between performance and expectations, strengths to tap upon and gaps to close.

Observers utilize the written feedback feature to give their inputs to which provides clarity and an avenue for specific action steps to be taken. This space is also used to give praise and encouragement.

LEVELS OF ASSESSMENT

The system is robustly built to handle various levels of assessment:

1. Self-Assessment – Where you assessed yourself on your own competencies
2. 360-degree assessment – Where you are assessed by your direct reports, peers, superiors and self
3. 720-degree assessment – Where the 360 assessment is applied in the workplace and personal life for more holistic insights
